FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) -- Steffi Graf gave birth to a healthy son three weeks early, and father Andre Agassi attended the birth.

The baby, Jaden Gil, was born at Valley Hospital in Las Vegas on Friday and weighed 5 pounds, 7 ounces, Graf's marketing firm said Saturday.

"This is the most proud day of our lives," the two tennis stars said in a statement. "We are thankful for this wonderful gift and are excited to begin our new lives as parents."

Mother and son were doing well and were able to leave the hospital the day after the birth, the statement said.

Graf and Agassi married in a private ceremony Monday. They had previously announced their son was expected in early December. It is the first child for both.

Agassi, 31, and Graf, 32, began dating after each won the French Open in 1999. Graf, a seven-time Wimbledon champion, retired in 1999.

Agassi was previously married to actress Brooke Shields. It is Graf's first marriage.

The couple recently bought a $23 million home in the San Francisco Bay area. They announced in July they were expecting a baby.

Graf gives birth to son

Graf has been a fixture at Agassi's side on the ATP tour
Wimbledon great Steffi Graf has given birth to a boy with husband Andre Agassi at her side.

The baby was born in a private clinic in Las Vegas in the early hours of Friday morning.

The infant, named Jaden Gil by his famous tennis playing parents, weighed 5lb 4oz (2.6kg) and measured 50cm.

The baby arrived three weeks prematurely in the American gambling capital as Agassi looked on.

The birth was just four days after couple were married on Monday in a private ceremony in the town.

They newly-weds issued a joint statement confirming their delight after the ceremony.

They said: "We are so blessed to be married and starting this chapter of our lives."

According to German newspaper Bild, a routine examination had shown that Graf might give birth early.

And that was the reason why the couple had organised their wedding so quickly and secretly.

Seven-times Grand Slam winner Agassi has pulled out of next week's Tennis Master Series in Paris.

It is the second marriage for the 31-year-old, who wed actress Brooke Shields in 1997 after a much-publicised romance.

The two were divorced in 1999.

It is the first marriage for Germany's Graf, who retired in 1999 after a glittering career that saw her clinch 22 Grand Slam titles.

She has since been a fixture at Agassi's matches.

In an interview in August, Agassi said he was overjoyed at Graf's pregnancy.

"I always wanted to start a family and Steffi somehow strengthened this wish".

Graf said last week that she wanted to get back to tennis after the birth.

The seven-times Wimbledon champion admitted she thinks her son will also be a sporting star.
