

Up to and when I'm 30

I intend to be successful, but the question I will ask myself, is how? My answer to that would be hard work and dedication, something I need to understand as I'm taking it a bit easy at the moment. This is how I plan my life to be up to the age of 30.

My first ambition is to get good qualifications at GCSE level, by passing 8 GCSE's at a B level+. I then want to go onto Oxford College and study, A-level Business Studies, A-level Physics, AS-level Maths, and GNVQ Spanish, as I was deprived of learning Spanish at Esher High School, for the reason that I didn't like learning French. I hope to pass all of these qualifications at C+. As soon as I'm 17 I want to learn to drive, within two months of my seventeenth birthday I plan to be on the road with a full driving license, and have my own Vauxhall Corsa as my set of wheels. Once I finish college my intentions are not to go to university, as my feelings are that I don't want to waste another 3 years in education, when I can be earning money to fund myself for my ambition.

Up to the age of 21 I shall still be living with my parents, but I will be in full time work, doing an office job or something boring like that. From the age of 21-22 I would like to do a bit of travelling to some of my favourite cities and countries, such as, Barbados, New York, the Maldives, the French Alps and Brazil. At age of 23 I propose to set up my dream career of being a Commercial Airline Pilot, by either obtaining sponsorship from British Airways, or more likely, funding myself (My Parents) for the full £65,000 fee, of getting myself trained to be an airline Pilot by Oxford aviation. By the age of 25 I want to have passed my training at Oxford Aviation, and hopefully would've set up my career in the Pilots industry, by flying for one of the transatlantic airliners. You may think why would you want to be an airline Pilot, because you might Crash the plane or you might get DVT, but I don't care about that, I want to travel around the world (daily), I want to see different cultures, meet different people, you're going to die sometime, why not live that risk, and choose a profession that you really enjoy.

Anyway, I would like to buy my own flat in Chelsea at the age of 27, when I have more money and maybe a villa somewhere hot. By the age of 27-30 I will be still enjoying my job, I might have a wife by then if, I feel like someone wasting all my money, and who knows I might be out of the co-pilots seat and into the captain seat by then.
