35 years ago the whole world was screaming about Global Cooling and everyone was convinced that the whole planet was going to become a giant ice ball. But since that did not happen they had to change the direction and warn us that Global warming was happening and that it would cause temperature to rise at a rapid and unpredictable rate. And now we are forced to believe that killer heat waves, vast flooding and the spread of diseases, rising ocean level and more violent hurricanes and tornadoes are going to happen.

How about scientific evidence? Well, that's easy. Haven't we all seen the picture of ice melting in the Arctic?

For most people that is the evidence.

A little research into the modern temperature trends shows that in 1936 America experienced 49 consecutive days with temperatures over 32 degrees. In 1992 it was only one day.

Also during the ice age there was at least 15 times more carbon dioxide in the air than now. Even though we are releasing carbon dioxide into the air we won't do any harm to anyone, as the carbon dioxide is as pollutant as nitrogen. Cause of global warming school children are told that recycling is a matter of life and death. Businesses have been shut down. Valuable products like Freon have been removed from the market.

And that crap Climate Protocol will cost only America seven million jobs in 14 years, it will cost an average family 1,000 to 4,000 dollars in increase of energy costs yearly. Do you want all of this, only because of a misspeculation?! We are being fooled! There will be gasoline taxes, carbon taxes and much more.

Did you know that between 1940 and 1970, global temperatures went down slightly, even with the carbon dioxide levels going up.

The temperature in the interior of Antarctica has slightly decreased with an increase of sea ice.

Sea levels are rising, but at the same rate that they have been rising for the past 6,000 years.

The number of hurricanes in the United States peaked at 23 from 1940-1949, whereas the number of hurricanes per decade from 1970-1999 rested at about 14.

How about the reports of the Arctic melting?

Well it is. In fact it has been about a million years so since the beginning of the ice age in which the ice covered most of the world. Now we are ending the ice age and the melting won't cause the sea level to rise. Did you know Scientists from Nasa say that Mars has warmed by about 0.5C since the 1970s. This is similar to the warming experienced on Earth over approximately the same period.

Since there is no known life on Mars it suggests rapid changes in planetary climates could be natural phenomena.

So why isn't Al Gore blaming us for Mars heating as well, after all he is weird enough to.

And as for Antarctica it is cooling about 1 degrees per decade.

The full truth about global warming is that our sun is getting bigger, and the bigger a star is the more hydrogen it burns to release more light and heat energy.

Like it or not, global warming does not exist. Period. Thank you very much for listening to me.
