

From the graph there is a non linear relationship between the number of digits precision and the time taken to produce them. The time taken increases in greater proportion than the number of digits of precision.